- Protecting Kid’s Online Privacy
- April VOD Releases

HELP YOUR KIDS PROTECT THEIR PRIVACY

There’s a lot of talk about privacy. But what is it, really? There are two key components of privacy that affect you and your kids: consumer privacy and personal privacy. Consumer privacy relates to the data that companies can collect about you. Personal privacy refers to your online reputation. In today’s world, where sharing is becoming the norm, it’s crucial for kids to understand the importance of sharing appropriately. Everything kids say or do online can affect their reputation.

Digital life is very public and often permanent. If kids don’t protect their personal information, what they do online will create a digital footprint that wanders and persists. Something that happens on the spur of the moment—a funny picture, a certain post—can resurface years later. And if kids aren’t careful, their reputation can get away from them, and third parties—like marketers or potential employers—can access what kids thought was private information. Privacy settings help—but they aren’t fail-safe. Plus, companies sometimes change their privacy policies, which may mean you need to update your settings.

Set in the South two years before the Civil War, Django Unchained stars Jamie Foxx as Django, a slave whose brutal history with his former owners lands him face-to-face with German-born bounty hunter Dr. King Schultz (Christoph Waltz). Schultz is on the trail of the murderous Brittle brothers, and only Django can lead him to his bounty. Honing vital hunting skills, Django remains focused on one goal: finding and rescuing Broomhilda (Kerry Washington), the wife he lost to the slave trade.

Christoph Waltz brought home the Oscar for Best Actor in a Supporting Role and Tarantino won the Oscar for Best Original Screenplay.

You can hunt down and watch Django Unchained on April 16th!

Malcolm and Kisha move into their dream home, but soon learn a demon also resides there. When Kisha becomes possessed, Malcolm turns to a priest, a psychic, and a team of ghost-busters for help.

A Haunted House will possess your TV on April 23rd!

The 2004 Indian Ocean tsunami is brought to shockingly realistic life in J. A. Bayona’s ten minute sequence near the beginning of the harrowing true-life survival tale, The Impossible. With little to no CGI and using mostly scale models and a giant water tank, Bayona throws the viewers into the wave along with stars Naomi Watts (astonishing) and young Tom Holland (revelatory as Watts’ son). Told from the point of view of a family on holiday in Thailand, the story makes for a riveting family-centered emotional drama. The rest of the cast is outstanding as well, and there’s a strong humanist approach applied to depicting this wide-spread multi-national disaster.

The Impossible rushes to your screen on April 23rd.

The film is loosely based on the story of Los Angeles Police Department officers and detectives forming a group called the “Gangster Squad unit” who attempt to keep the city safe from Mickey Cohen and his gang during the 1940s and ’50s. It stars an ensemble cast that includes Josh Brolin, Ryan Gosling, Nick Nolte, Emma Stone, Sean Penn, Michael Peña, and Giovanni Ribisi.

Gangster Squad shoots it’s way onto your screen, April 23rd.

Andy Brewster is about to embark on the road trip of a lifetime, and who better to accompany him than his overbearing mother, Joyce. After deciding to start his adventure with a quick visit at mom’s, Andy is guilted into bringing her along for the ride. Across 3,000 miles of ever-changing landscape, he is constantly aggravated by her antics, but over time he comes to realize that their lives have more in common than he originally thought. His mother’s advice might end up being exactly what he needs.

Guilt Trip makes way to your TV on April 30th ... and oh yea, call your mother.
